Remarks:

The examiner appears to indicate in the advisory action that these claims would be allowable once they are rewritten in independent form. To that end we are deleting those claims from this appeal and they will be subject of the continuation application that is being filed at the same time as this amendment.

Re the change of "trough" to --outer housing.-- The wording "trough" was merely an oversight, it is clear from reference to fig. 5 filed with the preliminary amendment that the outer housing was being referred to there as there is no way a trough could function in the invention as a tubular shape, there being no way to catch any of the distillate in such case.

No new matter has been added.

Respectfully submitted,
